

Murray E. Brown is a retired professional police officer with more than thirty-eight years in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. His career exposure has taken him to many different Provinces. Those duties include general policing, drug enforcement and prevention initiatives, organized crime, criminal intelligence along with other specialized exposures. Murray has carried out these duties in very highly competitive environments, with many accomplishments, retiring at the rank of Staff-Sergeant.

While serving, Murray successfully completed a Degree at Saint Mary's University, Halifax with honours in Sociology (major) and Criminology (minor). He was continuously elected on numerous occasions as the Staff Relations Representative, the voice of various categories of employees with numerous elements of Government, senior management and other organizations. He has experiences in mediation, interest based negotiation, conflict resolution, public speaking and presentation. Murray has been involved with occupational safety, enforcement and management on the Federal level. He has extensive experience in development and implementation of policy.

Murray excels in open, honest and bilateral communications. He is an experienced leader and team player, who demonstrates professionalism, compassion and reliability.

NPF-FPN